Baseball Magic I would say as a general rule, anthropology has featured two main ideas about religion. One of these is that the "Strange Beliefs" of others may actually be logical. This is one of the main themes of the film and of the Muckle and González chapter.

Supernaturalism: Anthropology, Religion, and "Baseball Magic"

Magic and Religion. Most cultures of the world have religious beliefs that supernatural powers can be compelled, or at least influenced, to act in certain ways for good or evil purposes by using ritual formulas. These formulas are, in a sense, magic . By performing certain magical acts in a particular way, crops might be improved, game herds replenished, illness cured or avoided, animals and people made fertile.

Anthropology of Religion: Magic and Religion

Magical thinking in various forms is a cultural universal and an important aspect of religion. Magic is prevalent in all societies, regardless of whether they have organized religion or more general systems of animism or shamanism. Religion and magic became conceptually separated with the development of western monotheism, where the distinction arose between supernatural events sanctioned by mainstream religious doctrine and magic rooted in folk belief or occult speculation. In pre-monotheistic

Magic and religion - Wikipedia

The complete continuity between magic and religion has been a postulate of modern anthropology at least since early 1930s. [c] [11] The perspective of modern anthropology towards religion is the projection idea , a methodological approach which assumes that every religion is created by the human community that worships it, that "creative activity ascribed to God is projected from man". [12]

James Frazer's ethnology of religion entitled The Golden Bough, published in 1890 and again in 1922, offered a thorough review of the cross cultural variation in ideas related to magic, myth and religion that were known to Europeans at the time. Taking an evolutionary approach to spirituality, he proposed that human belief progressed through three stages: primitive magic, which was displaced by religion, which in turn was replaced by science.

Magic and religion. Magic continues to be widely perceived as an archaic worldview, a form of superstition lacking the intrinsic spiritual value of religion or the rational logic of science. Religion, according to seminal anthropologist Sir Edward Burnett Tylor (1832-1917), involves a direct, personal relationship between humans and spiritual forces; in religion's highest form, that relationship is with a personal, conscious omnipotent spiritual being.
