The Maltese Falcon by Dashiell Hammett was originally published serially in the magazine Black Mask, in five parts between 1929 and 1930. It is a detective novel set in 1928 in San Francisco, featuring protagonist, Sam Spade, who also appears in three other lesser-known short-stories. It is an early example of the "hardboiled" detective novel, which departs from novels in the romantic tradition that heavily emphasize characters' emotions and instead introduces a cynical and detached ...

The Maltese Falcon was a chosen book on A Good Read (BBC Radio 4) by British crime writer Mark Billingham. He said it was the Noir/hardboiled mother lode and when I read it I knew he was right. We've all seen the movie, Bogart, 1941 but the novel has much more richness. And Sam Spade (his only outing from Hammett's pen) is a piece of work.
